TUESDAY, DEC. 15, 1896.
PEACE WITH HONOR.
President Cleveland's second administration seems destined to be famous for foreign complications and for great treaties. The news is now flashed over the wires that a general arbitration treaty will soon be signed between the United States and Great Britain. That the terms of the treaty are practically agreed upon and that it will be signed by the great contracting nations before March 3, 1897. The full import of this action can not be reduced in a moment. It is a treaty made between two friendly nations by which they agree to abandon inhuman war as a means of settling their disputes, but will the rather resort to peaceful arbitration. The decree of the court of arbitration even if it is apparently unjust can be honorably accepted, because the reference to arbitration is an agreement to accept the decision whatever it may be.

The signing of this treaty takes away war as even a most remote possibility between this country and England. It puts out of the realm of even a faint probability another great war with the United States as one of the combatants. It is equivalent to an alliance between the two English speaking nations that they will use their combined influence to the attainment of universal peace.

From a commercial point of view the importance of the treaty cannot be overestimated. It is well known that the rumor of war is often almost as disastrous in its consequences as an open rupture. Now, however, it will be known that for all differences there is an agreed method of adjudication. Only an insult to the national honor of one of the two nations can give the slightest cause for alarm.

This treaty following so close upon the most happy termination of the Venezuelan imbroglio marks an epoch in the history of the relations of the two nations. It is by far the most important treaty this country has ever made with England since the attainment of our national independence; and history will point it out as the crowning event of Cleveland's administration.

Richard Olney the eminent secretary of state who has conducted the negotiations on behalf of the United States will rank as one of America's great secretaries of state, and will take his place with Webster and Blaine.

UNITED STATES AND CUBA.
The cowardly assassination of Antonio Maceo has created intense excitement in Washington and throughout the whole United States, and has greatly increased the probabilities of American intervention. Indeed, it is now considered certain, unless the story of Maceo's death is now reported, to be proved to be not true that congress will take decisive action within the next few days. It is also becoming generally believed in Washington that the Spanish have for a long time been violating the laws of war in the manner of defenseless women and children, and by shooting captured prisoners of war. Many conservative members of congress, who have hitherto opposed any intervention in behalf of Cuba, are now openly advocating decisive interference on the part of this country. If the report of the manner in which Maceo's death was accomplished be fully confirmed, then the crisis between this country and Spain is at hand.

The people of this country do not want war with Spain. But Americans believe in fair play. They admire courage and bravery and have long deeply sympathized with the Cubans. The next few days will be a period of tremendous interest to this country. The developments may be war with Spain and in behalf of Cuba Libre.

Public opinion in the United States is well voiced by the following from the Chicago "Inter Ocean":
"Congress should no longer hesitate, but set at once. It is useless to wait for the President to act in a case of sympathy. He is not built that way. The American people, however, have sympathy for all who struggle to be free, and they despise such savage tyranny as Spain has manifested in Cuba. Of the people Congress is especially representative, and being representative it should give voice to the wishes of the people so plainly manifested. Acknowledge the Cuban republic and give the men who are fighting to establish it a fair chance to accomplish their noble purpose."

The silver Democrats are getting weary. In fact the atmosphere is becoming cold and great big drops of precipitated loneliness can be seen clinging to their visages. The bewiskered Populists are declaring that fusion has been a failure and that they have been betrayed in the house of their supposed friends. The sound money Democrats manifest wonderful staying powers, and are even sharpening their weapons for another fight. Veil the way of the transgressor is hard.

It is said that Senator elect E. C. Linny, of Louisville, will be an applicant for the position of Public Printer at Washington. Senator Linny is a young man, whose success in life is due to sterling worth and plenty of energy and any recognition of him and of Kentucky Republicans through him will meet with hearty approval from the Republicans of this state.

Antonio Maceo.
The Chicago "Times-Herald" gives the following account of Gen. Maceo's early military life:
Maceo is the last of nine brothers who died and died for Cuba. And in him is concentrated the spirit of the eight brothers and their dead father. Antonio was born in 1818 on the plantation of his father, Marcos Maceo, near the little Palm-hatched village of Barajagua. He worked for the family, driving the mules along the lonely mountain roads. He saw the slaves toiling and secretly felt the shame of the Cuban degradation. One day in 1868 Antonio returned from a trip to Havana, bringing to his father the news that the Cubans had uprising and the island was in revolt. By this time the family had increased to eleven—nine sons and two daughters. Young Antonio desired to fight for his country, but Maceo, the father, prevailed upon him and his brothers to maintain a strict neutrality. Yet the father deeply sympathized with the cause of the insurgents, and often lent them secret aid when he could. Perhaps the Spaniards in some way learned this fact, and it was that knowledge that gave to Cuba her greatest leader. One day a band of Spanish guerrillas under the lead of Capt. Campillo passed by the Cuban's plantation. Maceo and his elder sons were away upon a trip to Barajagua. At nightfall, when they returned, they found their home a mass of blackened ruins. The barns were burned, the crops destroyed, the mules, horses and cattle stolen. The mother, with a broken arm, was tied to a tree moaning from pain. Six boys lay on the ground, bleeding and senseless. The two girls were hiding, half dead, in the bushes. What should now withhold the Maceos from the conflict? The next day the women of the Maceo household were placed in the hands of friends and the father assembled his sons together. He required them all to register an oath never to lay down their arms until the Spaniards should be driven from the island and Cuba be free. How well the sons have kept that oath has been seen in the record of blood and flame from one end of the island to the other.

At the time that Maceo's plantation was destroyed General Maximino Gomez was lying with his forces in the mountains of Santiago. One day he was confronted by a tall, gaunt man, followed by half a dozen awkward boys. The gaunt man volunteered his services and those of his sons.

"Can you fight?" asked the leader with a smile.
"Perhaps," was the reply.
Some time after a company of Spanish cavalry passed near the camp of Gomez. They were out to pieces by the guerrillas of Gomez. At the head of the rebels rode the Maceo awkward squad. The father fell in this fight and within two months three of the sons had been slain in battle. The remaining members of the Maceo family seemed to bear a charmed lives. They fought recklessly. Death first overtook Miguel; then Julio fell under Spanish fire, and Felipe and Thomas were disabled. This left Antonio alone. His brother Jose was too young to join in the fight. For the first year of his service under Gomez Antonio fought like a lion. In that space of time he was promoted from a common soldier to a sergeant, and then became successively lieutenant, captain and major. Soon after his last promotion he led a band of 300 against the upland town of Trinitaria, and capturing the forts, drove the Spaniards to Santiago. He was then given the straps of a colonel. His career from this forward was one of glory. Gomez advanced him in power, and the Spaniards began to dread his very name. His engagements were all brilliant, his victories far reaching, his losses slight.

Governor Bradley's Position.
It is certain that no vacancy now exists, either actual or implied, as Senator Blackburn is in Washington performing the duties and drawing the salary of the office. There is equal reason to say that the failure of the Legislature to elect during the regular session, as directed by the law, was equivalent to a forfeiture of authority in the case, inasmuch as the law makes no provision for any proceeding of that sort. To be sure, the Senate is the sole judge of the qualifications of its members, and might vote to send a man elected at a special session; but in this particular instance the circumstances forbid expectation of such a result. Blackburn's successor is sure to be a sound money man, and the free silver Senators, who constitute a majority, would vote solidly against his admission for political reasons. It is evident, therefore, that Gov. Bradley's course in the matter is a sound and judicious one, and that he does not deserve censure for his refusal to aid in bringing about an election that would be premature and unauthorized.

While conceding that it is of vast importance that Kentucky should elect a Senator, it is of much greater importance that he should be sent after he is elected. The State has only itself to blame for the complications which will deprive it of full representation in the Senate for a time after the 4th of March; and the best thing it can do is to be patient until it can correct its mistake in a legal and proper way.

The Puritan.
From the Chicago Inter-Ocean.
The monitor Puritan has just gone into commission. She was the last and largest of the five monitors built by John Roach in the contract made in 1876, about which there was large discussion, and the honest old manufacturer driven to his grave by unjust criticism during Cleveland's first administration. The armament of the Puritan is modern and of the most powerful nature. She carries four twelve-inch guns in two turrets, with a secondary battery of four-inch rapid fire guns and Hotchkiss guns. With low free board and ample armor protection the vessel is able to deal deadly blows without much danger of being crippled. Those qualified to judge are enthusiastic admirers of the Puritan.

The Western Idea.
From the Chicago Inter-Ocean.
Idaho is the fourth state to grant full woman suffrage. Its vote last month was Bryan 23,192, McKinley 6,224, and Bryan's plurality of 16,968 would have been more than doubled by woman suffrage. That was the effect in Colorado and Utah, where the Bryan pluralities respectively were 138,540 and 55,592. Idaho will probably find before long that, politically, it has doubled its sorrows and divided its joys.

MYSTERIOUS DISAPPEARANCE.
Twenty-Seven Dollars Leave a Clothing Establishment Very Suddenly.
The proprietor of the clothing store at Second and Broadway today complained that he left his pocket-book containing $27 in silver on a desk in his store, stepped out for a few moments and when he returned found it gone.
Officer Harlan went down and searched an employe or two in the store at the time, but no trace of the money was found.

OF BLOOD POISONING.
Death of Mr. J. P. Ezell at Mayfield, Ky.
Ex-Officer J. P. Ezell, better known as "Keen Cutter," and a cousin of Capt. J. M. Ezell, of the city, died yesterday of blood poisoning at his home in Mayfield.
He recently had a carbuncle out from his neck and blood poison resulted. He leaves a wife and three children, and was about 45 years of age.
While there's still time is the right time to get rid of a cough or cold, or a throat or chest trouble. These are easiest of all disorders to neglect and the most serious of their results. The lungs are the most important and delicate organs of the human body; if harassed by a continuous hacking cough they will soon break down; that means consumption and consumption means death. Dr. Bell's Pine Tar Honey cures coughs, colds and throat and chest troubles of all descriptions. It never fails. Druggists sell it. For sale by Oehlisch-lager & Walker.

Columbian Club.
The Catholic Columbian Club meets tonight at Cecilia Hall, and there will be a large attendance. Miss Brest, of Ohio, who is a guest of Mr. John T. Donovan and family, will render by request several vocal selections.

NEW WINDSOR.
Opened Last Night to a Good Crowd.
The New Windsor theater on South Third street opened last night with "Cuba" or the Staff of Diamonds. This the first performance was very good, and the performance will of course grow better with each production. Lew Waters, the manager, deserves special mention, as does Mr. Fred Hubbard, the versatile comedian.

Marriage in the County this Afternoon.—Other Wedding News.

Mr. Sam Quisenberry, the popular chief operator of the Western Union, left this morning for Dyersburg, accompanied by his mother, Mrs. Bettie Bristol, his aunt, Mrs. Judge W. S. Bishop, Mr. Sam Hubbard and Rev. W. E. Cave, with this afternoon on the First Presbyterian church, Dyersburg, performed the ceremony that made Mr. Quisenberry and Miss Marian Thomas, one of the belles of Dyersburg, man and wife. The couple have gone to New Orleans on a bridal tour.

Miss Millie Cunningham, of the county, was married at 2 o'clock this afternoon to Mr. Oliver Adcock, a young farmer of Melber, Graves county, at the home of the bride's father, Mr. C. C. Cunningham, near Rossington.

What are the Word?
A young lady asked a naughty editor how to make "not enough" out of the word "enough," and he tells her it is done by transposing the letters into words like this: "Take the third, second and first letters of the word enough for the first word, and the sixth, fourth and fifth for the second word, and you will have two words that signify something that is not enough for most young ladies.—Exchange.
